

Fall Judicial Intern Application Information
Nusrat Jahan Choudhury, Eastern District of New York

I. Judicial Intern Hiring Update

Judge Choudhury's chambers is currently hiring two part-time judicial interns for Fall 2025. Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis until the positions are filled.

Interested candidates should keep in mind the following information:

The internship will run roughly through the period of the fall academic semester, with exact dates to be determined based on candidates' law school calendars and availability.

Interns will work with Judge Choudhury's judicial law clerks. Interns' duties will include: assisting clerks with legal research and drafting; citation checking, Bluebooking, and finalizing orders for filing; and other substantive and administrative tasks that arise in chambers.

Judge Choudhury's chambers welcomes and encourages applications from people with a demonstrated commitment to public service.

Judge Choudhury's chambers is located in Central Islip, Long Island and interns are expected to work in chambers in Central Islip one to two days per week, with hours to be determined based on the intern's class schedule and requirements for law school credit. Applicants should expect to work at least one full day or two half days.

Applicants should send the following materials to choudhury_chambers@nyed.uscourts.gov:

- a) a cover letter;
- b) a resume;
- c) a law school transcript;
- d) an unedited writing sample; and
- e) the names and contact information for two references, including one from a person who directly supervised the applicant's legal analytic and writing skills.

Applicants are encouraged to include in the cover letter their career goals, personal narrative, or other relevant background information that does not appear elsewhere in the application.
